Buffs Opening Fall Practice

Good Bunch of Men Were In Uniform For the First Practice—Hard Schedule

The fall training camp for West Texas State Buffaloes opened yesterday. Coaches Gus Miller and Windy Nicklaus are expecting about 40 boys to be in uniform this week. Others will probably enter college at the beginning of the session.

Coach Miller states that The Buffs have one of the largest schedules ever undertaken. Every opponent this fall excepting Baylor and Tech have Naval training units from which to draw men. The Navy allows trainees to participate in athletics.

Only the largest colleges have resumed football, and therefore the schedule had to include top-notch teams. Says Miller, "We have seven lettermen back. The team is going to be good on offense. Last year we scored on every team that we played. I have no predictions for the team this year, but expect it to be stronger than the one we had last year. The fans will enjoy watching the boys as they will put up a fine game."

Eastern New Mexico was scheduled for Sept. 15, but the Portales college cancelled the game.

As things now stand, the opener will be with the Baylor Bears in Waco on Sept. 22.

The mentors don't have the manpower shortage to contend with they did last year, after laying off in 1943. In fact, West Texas State would have bright prospects if the Buffaloes were still playing their regular pre-war schedule instead of major powers.

Six of the 1944 regulars are returning — Hoss Bledsoe, Seymour, and Willard Hedges, Olton, backs; Kenneth Glasgow, Follett, end; Dave Browder, Memphis, tackle; Dwaine Lyons, Olton, guard; and A. D. Shaver, Seymour, center.

Billy Greenfield, Brownfield, back, and Don Leach, Wellington, end, both earned their letters and will be back.

Transfers and freshmen expected to report include Glen Stafford, Borger; Hap Rogers, Vernon; Frank Smith, Memphis; Jimmy Terrell, Denver City; W. S. Carlile, Clarendon; Bert Lane, Turkey—backs; Alanzo Robertson, Memphis; Lloyd Johnson, Wheeler; James Shaffer, Groom; James Walling, Clovis; Sid Levey, Clovis; R. L. Smith, Chillicothe; Jack Tidmore, Chillicothe—ends; John White, Clovis; A. L. Hodges, Tahoka; Bill Vardeman, Levelland; Raymond Smith, Seymour; John Cubine, McLean; Bobby Harnsberger, Denver City—tackles; Dan McMillan, Memphis; Herman Brents, Vega; Arley Stafford, Borger; Dick Owens, Munday; Jim Hanvey, Memphis; Dan McGowan, Hereford—guards; Bill Wheeler, Borger, center.

In spite of wartime difficulties, the Buffaloes had a successful season in 1944, winning four and losing three. Victories were gained over University of New Mexico, Lubbock Field, South Plains Field and Abilene Collegians. Texas Tech, Oklahoma Aggies and Amarillo Field outscored the Buffs.

West Texas State holds membership in the Border Athletic Conference but it is doubtful if enough of the schools will compete to decide a champion.

State Director Calls on Local Boards Continue

State Selective Service Director J. Watt Page states that only four of the local boards out of 351 have filed their resignations and asked to be relieved.

Page praised the unselfish services which have been given by local citizens who have served on Selective Service for almost five years. But he called on all to continue their service until the job has been completed.

The director suggested to local boards that all boys between 18 and 25 years who have received deferments during the war shall now be drafted to "stand guard" in the dictator nations.

There has been only one change in the Randall county board since Selective Service started. Dr. R. P. Jarrett and W. J. Flesher have served since the local board was appointed in October 1940. Roy Byrd was appointed last October to take the place of Clyde Warwick, who had served since Selective Service was started.

Voters Approve Three Issues

Very Light Vote was Cast Saturday in the Special Election Held in Texas

Only a very small percent of the voters of Texas took time Saturday to vote in the special election at which time four constitutional amendments were submitted to the voters.

About the same percentage of voters throughout the state stayed at home as they did in Randall county.

Three of the four amendments were accepted by the voters. The only one rejected was the increase of pay for legislators, which the voters throughout the state overwhelmingly smothered. Only two counties in the state voted in favor of this amendment.

The amendment to give a free vote to the men and women in uniform was the most popular one, carrying by large majorities.

The lawyers of the state put on an intensive campaign for the amendment to increase the number of members in the Supreme Court, and this amendment carried.

In spite of the varied opinions and opposition of large groups of those interested in the welfare of the old people of the state, the amendment carried to place a ceiling on old age assistance.

Kids Are Cause Crime Problems

Juvenile Cases Take Spot Light—Officers Tighten Grip on Law Enforcement

Canyon has had seven boys up on juvenile delinquency charges during the past week.

Five boys from Amarillo entered cabins at the Palo Duro State Park and did considerable damage to the equipment.

Four of the boys were paroled to their parents: Jimmie Weathers, J. F. Newton, Jerry Lunn and Joe Barker. They were 15 and 16 years of age. In the party was Sam Covey, Jr., who is held for action of the grand jury.

Two other boys were arrested for fast driving in Canyon. They confessed to having stolen a car in Amarillo, driving to Vega. The car went dead and they stole a pickup loaded with coal. The engate was taken out and the coal scattered by wild driving. Sheriff M. E. Cantrell questioned one of the boys and found that he was out of the reform school on parole. On calling the school the superintendent instructed that the boy be returned. The other boy will be tried for theft of the pick-up in Vega.

Fast and reckless driving by minors in Canyon have been noted for some time. Officers have been cautioned to pick up all youths who are indulging in this practice.

THERE IS A CONSTITUTION

The rebuke of the people of those members of the legislature who sought to boost their pay to $3,650 per year, a record for the entire nation, should cause those ardent souls to stop and think. But will it?

There is a constitution of Texas. The constitution says that the state SHALL be redistricted after EACH federal census.

Randall county is in the 123rd district. The population of the district was 78,010 in 1940. There are Representative districts in East Texas with only 19,000. The legislature has refused to redistrict the State since 1920 so far as the House of Representatives is concerned. There are more, than 16,000 qualified voters in this district, as compared to the total population of 19,000—including hundreds of negroes—in many East Texas districts.

The legislature redistricted the State for Senatorial districts after the 1920 census. There were 227,663 people in the 31st Senatorial district in 1940. Some of the East Texas Senatorial districts have only 100,000 population—including the many negroes.

Members of the legislature are entitled to more pay. They have never been able to live in Austin on the pay provided. Those who do not have an independent income can not serve in the legislature, which makes a bad situation.

West Texas members are not to blame. In every session of the legislature for the past 20 years West Texas members have attempted to redistrict the state. Their efforts have been blocked by East Texas members, who have small districts and want to hold on to their jobs. It will take as much power as an atomic bomb to unseat those fellows by voting them out of their districts.

The News believes that if the members of the legislature would get together and reduce the membership in the House to 93 members that the people would gladly increase the pay to $3,000 or $3,600 per year. The move is definitely up to the membership who want the change—not up to the people.

We see that Herbert Brownell, Jr. has it all settled. You understand that Herbert is chairman of the Republican National Committee, and therefore must be a hopeful soul. He says that the Republicans will control Congress after the 1946 election, and will elect the President in 1948. He has it all doped out, so that's that. The Republicans are going to blame Truman with pushing reconversion too rapidly. Whatever unemployment that may result from cancelling war contracts will be blamed on the administration. We take it that the Republicans are playing a two-string fiddle: If the President had refused to act promptly and cancel war contracts, then they would cry out against the waste of materials which could be used on civilian goods; but if unemployment results as the result of these cancellations; then the President is to blame for not allowing workers to stay on their jobs, wasting their time and wasting vital materials on useless munitions. It is not a likely story.

We are of the opinion that General Hershey and the brasshats of the Army in Washington are going to be disappointed when Congress meets. We expect to see Selective Service greatly reduced, and perhaps terminated, in spite of the pleas of Hershey to continue its functions. We note that one Texas board has served notice that no boy who wants to go to school this fall will be drafted; several other boards have resigned rather than submit to the dictatorial demands of State headquarters, which has been running Selective Service in Texas for the past year. Local members are being made the goat for State headquarters and the demands are becoming more and more unpopular, now that victory is assured. We shall see what we shall see.

Repeal of the 35 mile per hour driving ban is causing many more accidents. Drivers generally have been ignoring the 35-mile law, but now that all restrictions are off, the old casings and old cars are dying to pieces. Don't drive so fast, unless you crave an ambulance ride.

A REAL WOLF THIS TIME

The people of the United States have become so used to intermittent warfare in the coal industry, carried on in the form of strikes, that when they hear somebody say "coal shortage," they disregard the cry as did the people who finally ignored the boy who cried, "Wolf, wolf," to fool them. When the wolf did come, there was no help offered.

Right now the coal crisis is as real as was the wolf that finally got the boy. Regardless of what has caused the shortage, it is here. And if the people don't believe it and do all they can to remedy the situation, they are going to feel the bite of cold and a slow-down in industry, just as the boy felt the bite of the wolf's teeth.

The United States coal industry can increase production if it can get the coal miners. The only way to remedy the bite of a coal shortage is to dig more coal.

Everyone is putting forth his views on future peace. Most of these are based upon military training. Well, we have an idea, which came out of the last days of the Japs. Why not build about 2,000 B-29s, and load them up with atomic bombs; scatter them to remote places over the nation; and then serve warning on any budding dictator who may bob up that we are ready to blow hell out of any nation which refuses to keep the peace? In such a plan, only a small air force would be necessary as compared to the big standing army which the brass hats want to train. Before the collapse of Japan, it was rumored about Washington that the professional soldiers were actually frowning on an adequate air force for peace time, but wanted to build a permanent infantry force of two or three million men. Now you may have your idea on permanent peace.

The British people are howling because President Truman has stopped lend-lease. We have given the British billions of dollars worth of war goods, for which we shall never receive a dime. The British are a poor financial risk. They defaulted on the debt of World War I; they refused to allow our ships to pass through the Suez Canal as a charge against their debt to us, while we gave British ships free passage through the Panama Canal; they overcharged us on hauling our troops across the Atlantic. Yet they expect Uncle Sam to still continue as Santa Claus and pour out billions more of lend-lease, which we shall never collect. President Truman learned practical politics in Missouri, and found that "no" is a popular word in the vocabulary of the popular politician.

Well, well, well. Politics may pick up in a big way in Texas next year. Senator W. Lee O'Daniel says that he may be forced into the race for Governor because the politicians are not treating the old folks right. Political guessers—of which there are plenty—now guess that if O'Daniel runs for Governor and is elected, he will appoint Coke Stevenson to fill out his unexpired term in the Senate, ending in 1948. That's quite a story—if true. One thing is sure and certain, one can not read the mind of Pappy. But in view of the fact that he has bought a four-story apartment house in Washington, D. C., and is moving his political newspaper to Washington, wonder if some of the suspectors are not far off base.

The world is amazed that Japan would surrender while it still had one of the largest armies any nation has ever had. These soldiers hate to quit, since they have no idea as to what has taken place in the home islands. But two atomic bombs, on top of the destruction already done by the B-29's was too much for the emporer and his gang. No war has ever been won without the use of infantry. The Japs would not have been whipped so soon without the wonderful success of the doughboys under MacArthur in cleaning up the islands for the airbases. But this time it was the air force which gave the final knockout blow to Japan.

OUR DEMOCRACY——by Mat

LABOR DAY SALUTE

To the work of hand and brain
which has made possible
the might of Our Democracy.

MINORITY RIGHTS FREEDOM'S FOUNDATION

"The reason—and the only reason—democracy has worked in this country is that majority rule has gone hand in hand with minority rights.

"Divorce the two—throw out the idea that men are endowed by God with individual rights (as declared in the Declaration of Independence)—rights which no power on earth can touch—substitute the dictatorial right of the majority to do as it pleases, and you have overthrown the American system more effectively than if you had marched with an army of Black Shirts or Brown Shirts or Red Shirts down Pennsylvania Avenue and taken posession of the White House."—Cecil B. deMille.

If and when the waste of World War II is ever revealed, wonder if it will not exceed that of World War I? Naturally it will, if total dollars are taken as the index, in view of the fact that this war has been the greatest and most destructive in the history of mankind. What we are wondering about is the cost per unit—materials and labor, which have gone into construction of plants and munitions. We hear of the many five to ten million dollar plants which were constructed after Germany folded up, and these plants have never been used. The government said when the war started that no millionaires would be made this time. What about all this cost plus business and the waste which has resulted? Perhaps some enterprising Congressman will really show us that war does not pay.

It is not too early to urge boys and girls to go back to school this fall. Boys and girls have been making a lot of money during the war. Their jobs have paid them as much or more than college graduates have been making. But they should realize that the end of these high wages is in sight. Their present lush wages were brought about by the scarcity of labor, and not by their ability. Six months from now the story will be different. Wages of unskilled labor are always the first to fall when there is a surplus of manpower. Every boy and girl who has not finished high school should go back to school this fall. Every young man and young woman who wants to prepare themselves for the future should enter college. Do not be deceived by the present high wage scale. These too shall pass away.

From the sound of demands and counter - demands coming out of Tokyo, you would think that MacArthur was landing to surrender to the Japs, instead of the Japs doing the throwing in of the sponge. The Japs like to kid themselves. When they succeed in getting some little innocent demand, they are saving face. MacArthur knows the Jap mind. He knows when to get tough, and when to satisfy the whim of the Japs, by which he will save American lives.

Scientists have about scared us to death about the atomic bomb. They say that under certain conditions the whole world could be blown up by one atomic blast. So far the United States, Canada and England hold the secret of the bomb. Russia is trying to get us to share with them. We hope that Truman will turn thumbs down on this demand. We spent 2 billion dollars or more in experimenting; the Russians refused to allow our military observers back of their lines until it became certain that Germany was thoroughly whipped. Naturally the scientists of other nations can uncover what we have already found out. It would be a tragic day for the civilized world should an ambitious dictator discover and build a number of these bombs.

The most popular repeal of wartime restrictions will be the restoration of standard time. We could never see any sense in this supposedly day light saving time, especially with war plants running 24 hours per day. At least half of each time zone suffered a real hardship under this regulation. As soon as Congress meets this regulation will go into the ash can. For the benefit of residents of the eastern half of time zones, Congress may be asked to restore this unpopular measure next summer under the argument that office workers would have more time for Victory Gardens. We hope that Congress will not fall for this argument.

President Truman is killing war measures right and left. The President comes from the common herd of the nation. He knows how hard it is to make dollars, and therefore is unwilling to waste the people's money in unnecessary government bureaus. What a change from the past few years when wasting public money has been the popular theme in Washington.

Directors of the Panhandle Press Association voted unanimously Saturday not to attmept a fall meeting of the association in spite of the lifting of the ban on conventions by ODT. Associations which try to have a meeting at a postponed date are usually badly disappointed in the interest and attendance of the members.

Love Gropes Way Around the World

Two Are Married by Proxy After Many Hardships.

KANSAS CITY, KANS. — Five years to the day after he rowed away from the Belgium coast with his fiancee in a tiny boat, German-born Edgar Wihl, a U. S. army corporal, wed Miss Lucy Golombiesky by proxy. She was in London.

The 39-year-old soldier stood before Thomas M. Van Cleve, Kansas City attorney, and pledged eternal devotion to the Berlin-born woman of Polish-Jewish extraction who fled to England with him.

Born near Cologne, Wihl had lived in Holland since he was six. In 1934 in Amsterdam, where he was a reporter on a Dutch magazine, he met Lucy, a visitor, and it was love at first sight.

Lucy stayed in Holland but the laws of the country at the time forbade marriage of a German and a Jewish woman. They decided to be married in Belgium on May 17, 1940. On May 10, the Nazi armies broke through.

The couple bribed a German guard with Edgar's automobile and radio and shoved off in the rowboat, accompanied by Wihl's brother, Rudy. They drifted for seven days without food until a Canadian destroyer picked them up and took them to England.

The brothers shipped out July 8, 1940, for Canada and two days later the ship was torpedoed. They were picked up by a ship headed for Australia. It was not until 1941 that they reached the United States and they survived another sinking in the Caribbean to do it.

They enlisted in the army April 16, 1941, at Fort Dix. Rudy was wounded on Okinawa. Edgar became a citizen September 28, 1942.

French Women Make Votes Tell in Local Elections

PARIS, FRANCE. — The traditional gallantry of Frenchmen toward the weaker sex was a little strained by the recent local elections, which brought women to the polls for the first time in the history of France.

Somebody—it might have been a defeated candidate — went around Paris chalking walls with the slogan, "Beware of petticoat government."

The small northern town of Echigey now has a complete matriarchal government. Ten women ran on a single ticket and somehow that ticket won. The defeated masculine candidates are demanding a recount.

In another community 500 nuns dominated the election. Their convent is situated near a town with a population of less than 300. The 500 sisters swept the village's "old guard" right out of office.

Flowers, Cheers Greet Yanks in Hitler's Town

BARUNAU, AUSTRIA.—American tanks and infantry were greeted with flowers and cheers when they "liberated" Adolf Hitler's native town. Not a shot was fired.

The American doughfeet crossed the Inn river in small boats borrowed from obliging civilians.

No one here except a sad eyed policeman seemed to care that Hitler had been reported dead.

"Well, how do you feel about Roosevelt's death?" the policeman kept asking. "That's the same way we feel about Hitler's. Roosevelt was the greatest American and Hitler the greatest German."

But others in the crowd laughed at him.

"Yes," the policeman admitted. "Most people here in his own birthplace are glad that he's gone because they think now they may have peace."

His Dad at Dunkerque, Youth Gets His Revenge

TANGERMUENDE. GERMANY. —William Piddington, a 20-year-old British driver whose father was at Dunkerque, went AWOL to stage such a savage one-man vendetta against the Germans that even battle-hardened American G. I.s blinked in surprise.

He returned to American lines for the first time in five days after the following exploits:

Putting on a German tunic, hijacking a German army truck, driving 25 miles into German lines and one mile from the Russians and sending back German staff dispositions.

Capturing 80 Germans, loading them in his truck and driving them back to hand over to the Americans.

Killing another 20 or 30.

"I only got shot at four or five times," he said. "When any German discovered I was British, I just killed him before he could start any thing."

Mail to Prisoners in Germany Being Held Up

WASHINGTON. — All mail addressed to American and Allied prisoners of war in Germany has been halted in transit and insofar as possible will be returned to the senders.

Deliveries will stop because of the breakdown of German mail deliveries coincident with V-E Day and the rapid evacuation of Americans and Allies formerly held prisoners in Germany.

USS Missouri to Be Scene of Historic Jap Surrender

The United States Navy's mighty 45,000-ton battleship, the USS Missouri, will end her World War II career in a blaze of glory, Aug. 31, 1945, in Tokyo Bay, when she serves as the scene of the historic unconditional surrender of Japan to the United Nations. Proudly bearing the name of the home state of President Harry S. Truman, the fighting USS Missouri has been named by General of the Army, Douglas MacArthur, Supreme Allied Commander, as the locale of the formal ending of the war in the Pacific. Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander-in-Chief of the United States Pacific Fleet and Pacific Ocean Areas, will sign for the United States, General of the Army, MacArthur, for the Allied Forces which fought in the Pacific. The USS Missouri was launched Jan. 29, 1944. Construction was ordered June 12, 1940. Her keel was laid on Jan. 6, 1941, at the New York Navy Yard.

Sugar Stamp No. 38 Will Become Available Sept. 1

Sugar stamp No. 38 in Book IV will be good for the purchase of five pounds of sugar beginning September 1.

The current sugar stamp No. 36, will expire August 31.

Continuing the ration rate of five pounds of sugar every four months, the new sugar stamp, No. 38, will be good through December.

Sugar stamp No. 38 is being validated instead of No. 37 because so many home canners by mistake last year mailed sugar stamp No. 37 to their local War Price and Rationing Board to obtain special canning allowances, instead of spare stamp 37 requested by OPA.

Captain Stone Tells Of Experiences in the Pacific Zone

Captain Harley S. Stone spoke at the luncheon of the Canyon Rotary Club, telling of his experiences in being shot down twice over Jap held territory. Fortunately he and his crew escaped without serious injury due to the friendliness of the natives.

His first crash was on a small island off Borneo. The plane fell into trees. It took the crew 20 hours to chop their way through the jungle 50 feet to a rise. There they were confronted by natives, who proved to be friendly. A shack was soon built for the aviators, and good meals were served to the crew on china dishes. They believed that Japs had been there and left the cooking utinsels. The men were spotted by P-38s, and a rescue crew soon came for them.

Capt. Stone stated that the Japs had accurate anti-air craft fire, and the large loss of planes was decidely bad on the morale of the Air Corps.

In May the plane which Capt. Stone was piloting went down over China. For three days the crew did not know whether they were over friendly or enemy territory. The natives would run when the crew members approached. It was finally revealed that the Japs were near and the natives were afraid of being caught protecting the men. Finally the natives took charge of them, scattering them so the Japs could not find them. Finally a boat came along and picked up the men, who had been well disguised. They were taken to the Chinese Magistrate, who wined and dined the men. Then they were taken thru Jap territory by 33 Chinese.

Capt. Stone told of the thrill of his crew in buying $476,000 worth of merchandise — Chinese money — which meant $76 in American currency.

The food was terrible in China, on the whole, but the treatment very fine. After they got back to the Philippines their case was reported to General MacArthur, who ordered that the crew be sent to America by transport plane.

Capt. Stone has a leave until Nov. 1. He will report to the War Department in Washington, D. C. for a report on his mission over China.

Visitors were: Guy B. Tabor, Lt. Robert A. Bellah, of Canyon; O. L. Tolzien of Pasadena, Calif.; Van H. Allen, Roy G. Boger, Ed W. Hardin, L. V. Dorsch, Arch B. Hunsley, W. A. Askew, Bob Dorough, A. D. Steed, Oran Thomas, L. A. Vahue, J. Francis Brown, Irving Tolzien, all of Amarillo; Thos D. Campbell of Longview.

Santa Ana Scene of Colorful Religious Fiesta

In a colorful blending of old and new, this Central American town of Santa Ana, El Salvador, pays its traditional yearly homage to the patron saint whose name it bears. For seven days solemn high masses and processions and time-hallowed ceremonies alternate with carnivals, dancing and sports, in an expression of thanksgiving as heartfelt as it was spontaneous.

The picturesque festival of Santa Ana dates back to the 17th century, when, according to legend, a group of Mexican Indians reached this community on a pilgrimage to the shrine of Esquipulas, in Guatemala, with them they bore the image of Santa Ana. Tired by their wanderings, they spent the night under a huge tree in the central square. But when morning came, and they made ready to carry the little image onward, they found that it had grown so heavy that it resisted all their efforts to raise it to their shoulders.

Convinced that a miracle had taken place, they arranged with the natives of the little Salvordan community to erect a temple to the image, and proceeded on their way. Since that time, the miraculous event has been commemorated each July in a week-long ceremony. This year, as usual, the festival was inaugurated by a solemn high mass, attended by leading prelates and government officials.

The religious ceremonies are immediately followed by a series of parades, bullfights, football games, boxing matches, concerts, street fairs, dances, pageants, carnivals and merry-making which leave the populace exhausted but happy when the ceremonies end.

Settlers Imported Stock To Fill Cattle Needs

Beef cattle, so much in the public eye due to rationing, are not native to the United States. When America was discovered, the only animal of the same genus bos found here was the bison. All domestic and range cattle are descendants of imports made by the settlers.

The Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia, tracing the ancestry of the beef steer, shows that since the days of the aurochs, the extinct forest ox of the old world, known to science as Bos primigenius, father of all cattle, man has been engaged in improving the animal for two human needs—milk and meat. For that reason, the Texas steer, or Longhorn, of the romantic days on the western range, is becoming extinct. He was too lean and too bony. His place has been taken by the stocky white-faced Hereford that yield more meat per animal.

Another interesting point made is that cowboys originated in the East and not the West. They were first known in Colonial times in the Piedmont of the South, the first cattle range of America.

Push Rubber Output

The vast tropical forests of South America have yielded a rising inflow of natural rubber this year to mix with the synthetic product from new chemical factories opening in the United States. In the first four months of 1943, rubber-producing regions of the other Americas shipped 50 per cent more rubber than in the comparable period of 1942, according to Everett G. Holt, chief of the Commercial Research section of the Rubber Development corporation. An even greater percentage increase has been shown in United States imports from this region.

Meanwhile, there have been occasional spurts of rubber imports at a faster rate. Consequently, prospects are considered good for the realization, at least, of the 1943 import goal of 41,000 tons of rubber from hemisphere sources set by the Baruch committee in its study of the rubber problem. However, forecasts of rubber imports from hemisphere sources are regarded in rubber circles as uncertain; because of the transportation problem, difficulty of ascertaining stocks and production figures in remote areas and the shortage of manpower in some of the best potential rubber-producing areas of the hemisphere, such as the upper Amazon.

Little Business

The 1939 Census of Manufacturers shows that 99.5 per cent of almost 190,000 manufacturing concerns listed by the census employed less than a thousand wage earners each. Of the total of almost eight million wage earners employed by all manufacturing concerns in 1939, 77.6 per cent were employed by firms having less than a thousand employees each. Using the figure of 1,000 employees to indicate the dividing line between "big" and "small" businesses, there were only 810 "big" business firms in 1939.

Moslem Pilgrimage

Moslems are supposed to make the pilgrimage to Mecca at least once, and many save for years in order to meet this religious obligation. Thousands are now able to make the journey, for the war has brought prosperity to the faithful in North Africa, as well as to war workers in India. It is expected that many pilgrims will make the journey from Libya this year by motor over the road on which the British Eighth army chased the Nazis and Italians out of Egypt.

Tire Rationing May Continue for Some Time States OPA

New passenger car tires will continue to be rationed largely on the basis of occupational driving needs, although rationing of all farm-implement and industrial type tires ended August 20, OPA has announced.

"The critical tire shortage has only been emphasized by the cancellation of gasoline rationing—application for tires have increased 20 per cent in many counties," say officials.

Predictions of an early end of tire rationing have made many applicants feel that local Boards were discriminating against them if their application was turned down. Local Boards must hold tire certificate issuance within their quotas and the end of the war brought no increase in quotas. "If you need any proof of the scarcity of passenger tires, just try to find one of the popular sized ones," officials point out.

Under the new eligibility system, certificates for new tires may be issued for use on the following:

1. Passenger cars used for occupational purposes. Board quotas will continue to be distributed in accordance with importance of the uses of passenger cars.

2. Passenger cars used for non-occupational purposes provided that the local board decides that denial of the application would cause undue hardship and that the issuance in this category does not exceed 5 per cent of the board's total quota.

Suggest Careful Check Of Canning Gauges

At a recent national food preservation conference, homemakers were advised that the gauge of every steam canner should be checked for accuracy once a year before canning begins.

If the gauge has to be sent away, it is advised that it be packed as carefully as a delicate glass. Upon its return, the conference suggested that users put plumbers paste on the threads when screwing it back on the canner.

Before a gauge is sent to a manufacturer because it seems inaccurate, checking of the safety valve to be sure it is working right, is advised by the national conference. Many a gauge registers inaccurately simply because the safety valve is clogged stiff with grease or food. This can be remedied at home by thorough cleaning.

Remove pet cock and valve and soak them in vinegar a short time. If particles of grease or food remain, draw a string or narrow strip of cloth through the opening. The national food preservation conference went on record as recommending that the steam pressure method of home canning be used for all home canning of low-acid vegetables, except tomatoes, and vegetables pickled before canning.

Sarah's Place

By RONALD KEELER
McClure Newspaper Syndicate. WNU Features.

THINGS weren't going any too well on the Bender quarter section lately. Crops had been good; the stock was well fed; all bills had been paid in advance. but Sarah's dad had suddenly decided that he wanted to sell, and stopping him was like meeting a policeman on a one-way street.

Lawyer Jayne was coming from town today to look over the place. The thought made Sarah so nervous she hardly knew which side of a chair to sit on. All week she had confused and twisted things. Once she started to can the pits instead of cherries. At another time she started to fry the potato peelings. It wasn't as if her father hadn't promised her full ownership of the farm when he died. She wished something could be done to stop him before it was too late, but it seemed hopeless.

Sarah's father came running into the house. "Don't forget to feed the chickens and the pigs. I don't want Jayne to think our stock is half-starved."

"Come pig, pig, pig!" she called. Several anxious grunters soon moved in quickly on her, and she poured the trough full of reddish-colored garbage.

She didn't want to sell. She wanted to live on this farm where she had been born and reared. Suddenly she decided she wouldn't give in easily. Walking boldly to her father, she said, "If you're going to sell this farm, I want to buy it."

"I want to buy it."

For a few moments he boiled inwardly, then spoke. "This place must be sold, and I'm selling it for cash today."

"But I'll pay cash for it," Sarah protested.

"With what?"

"With the money you'd get from it today. Only the deal would be made before the sale. You said once this farm would belong to me some day." Her voice was firm.

"If Jayne comes through, the farm goes. You don't want to be bothered with this old place now that prices are so high."

The smooth hum of an engine grew louder down in the valley, and soon Jayne rolled into the lane with his big car. "Hello, Jim," he said jovially. holding out a big hand. "Hello, Sarah," he smiled.

Sarah remained cold and crisp. "Let's take a look at things," Bender suggested, and the two started up over the ridge.

"This alfalfa has a good stand," Jayne admitted. "It should produce a fine crop next season."

"The crops are the best I've seen around here," Bender said. "You can't go wrong with the place."

They were at the pig pen now viewing future prospects for meat. Then one of the pigs began to grunt and squeal and dance madly around. Soon the others did the same. There was no sense or reason to their strange antics.

Sarah stood dumfounded. She couldn't figure out what was wrong. Jayne looked suspiciously at Bender. "They act as if they were crazy," Jayne charged.

"They're not crazy!" Bender said. "They're among the best in the state. It's your one chance in a lifetime."

"I'm not taking the chance, thank you," Jayne concluded, and started for his car.

"Just a minute," Bender pleaded. "You can't run away like this. Sarah, go in and fetch the cherry wine. Jayne can't go without some refreshment."

Sarah obeyed gladly. There was some hope now of keeping the farm. That would mean she would have another chance to own it.

Soon she returned with a jug of fresh cider. "I told you to bring the cherry wine," her father said.

Sarah's face flushed. Her throat was hot and choked.

"I don't drink fresh cider." Jayne said, and climbed into the driver's seat. Before Bender could stop him he was speeding down the highway.

"Well, that's that," Bender said despondently as he turned toward the house. "Now get me some cherry wine."

Finally Sarah managed to say, "There is no wine. I think it must have spoiled. You'll have to drink cider."

"That's strange," the man said.

As the kitchen door slammed Sarah thought, How could I have been mixed up enough to pour that wine into the pig feed?

After all, horse sense is just stable thinking.

City Fat Saving Record Falls Under Town and Farm Push

Ever since our government asked town and farm women to save used fats, the record previously set by city women has taken a beating.

We must keep up the good work! This country is facing a shortage of 1 billion, 500 million pounds of fats in domestic supplies, alone. Tons of vital war and home-front supplies requiring fats are still needed. We in towns and rural districts are in a better position to save fats than most city folks, so the government is depending on us.

Save every drop, every scrap. Melt down solid fats. There's never too little to save! Butchers will give you up to 4¢ and 2 red points a pound. If you have any difficulty, call your Home Demonstration or County Agent.

Three ways to handle your money

1. POUR IT DOWN THE DRAIN:

Sure, spend it like water. Easy come, easy go. Buy and buy, white market, black market, who cares? But, by and by, don't be surprised if you wind up broke.

2. SOCK IT IN THE WELL:

Not a bad idea, but not good, either. You put $75 down the well today... pull it up in 10 years...and what have you got? $75 and three frogs...which isn't much interest.

3. TURN IT INTO WAR BONDS:

Of course! Put your money to work! It helps the war effort, and the government needs every dollar it can get. It makes money for you: $75 in Series E Bonds now will come back in 10 years as $100. And you've got a swell "cushion" to fall back on in case of emergency. Buy all the Bonds you can—keep all the Bonds you buy!

This column appears in about 200 weeklies over the State and of course many copies of these papers go to Texans in service. A soldier from another State caught sight of the column and read aloud, "I Give You Texas," then added, "Now there's a fellow with the right idea; he offers to give you the State!" And each week when the paper arrives, somebody yells out, "Is that guy still trying to give Texas away?"

Along the same line: Two soldiers, undoubtedly from some other section, looked at a display of books in a gainesville store window and one said, "I Give You Texas" and his companion replied, "I'll give it right back to you." A chap lounging on the edge of the sidewalk neglected to identify himself to the soldiers as the author of the book!

We've Got Our Honorable Discharge, Too!

Reconversion is already a fact at

PHILLIPS 66

We're lucky! So are you!

For 24 hours a day, from Pearl Harbor to V-J Day, our refineries went full blast for Uncle Sam.

And now? Why, they're going full blast for you . . . speeding the wonderful new Phillips 66 gasoline on its way to you.

That's what we mean by reconversion!

The high octane fuels that once went into the big bombers will now go to you —especially adapted for your engine.

All the tricks, all the better ways we learned to do things, will now go to work for you.

From now on mister, the only priority you're going to need to get a tankful of Phillips 66 is the car you drive and your own good common sense.

Come and get it!
